Two friends, a promise, and a cabin. Martin and Simon, at the age of seven, made a vow to form a band. Twenty-two years later, they fulfilled that promise by creating AVKRVST and releasing their debut album, 'The Approbation". This work was recorded in a small cabin deep within a Norwegian forest. The album, composed of seven tracks, is a conceptual prog rock journey that blends prog rock and prog metal, featuring heavy, melodic, and occasionally aggressive elements.
Simon Bergseth (composer, guitars, bass, and vocals) and Martin Utby (composer, drums, and synthesizers), along with Øystein Aadland on bass/keys, Edvard Seim on guitars, and Auver Gaaren on keys, present AVKRVST's debut album.

In "The Approbation", the band showcases a masterful execution of various rock and metal styles, from acoustic guitars and melodic vocals to powerful drums and synthesizers, creating a captivating auditory experience.

“The Approbation” is a testament to progressive art, both musically and visually, transporting the listener to the intimacy of a cabin nestled in the heart of nature. At times, this setting offers tranquility, yet it also carries an air of mystery. All of this, coupled with the album’s positive reception, foreshadows a promising future for Avkrvst.
